

Territories Stolen Generations

Redress—Free support services

Free, independent and confidential support services are available to help you before, during and after you apply to the Territories Stolen Generations Redress Scheme—you can access these services even if you are just thinking about applying. These services can help you to get the information you need to make a decision that best suits your personal situation.

Independent legal advice and financial counselling

Legal advice

The Scheme encourages all applicants to seek legal advice.

knowmore Legal Service is available to provide you with free and independent legal advice in relation to your Scheme application. This includes your eligibility for the Scheme and the effects of accepting a redress payment. knowmore can help you to understand your legal options, including other forms of redress and compensation options that you may be eligible for.

knowmore's service is completely free. If you choose to use your own legal service for help and advice, it may not be free. Please call knowmore and see how they can help.

Financial counselling

Redress payments made under the Scheme are treated differently to other payments. The Scheme may affect your individual financial situation such as Centrelink payments, gifting, assets tests, aged care costs and existing debts. knowmore's financial counselling team can help you understand this, and how to keep your payment safe.

If you want to make the most of your redress payment, we encourage you speak to a financial counsellor before you receive a payment.

Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Engagement Advisors can also provide you with cultural support from when you first talk to knowmore. They have male and female Engagement Advisors available in all of their offices.

Contact knowmore

You can call knowmore Legal Service for culturally safe, trauma-informed legal advice and financial counselling on 1800 566 966 (1800KNOWMORE) or visit knowmore.org.au

Independent application support through Link-Ups

Link-Up services provide support for Stolen Generations and their families, including family tracing, family reunions and support services. Link Up services will be able to help you to fill out an application and can provide emotional support to you throughout the application process. There are Link-Up organisations in most states and territories. Contact the Link Up service in the state or territory where you currently live.
